

OLLY REEVES

Head of Risk Management, Lloyd's

Olly is the Head of Risk Management at Lloyd's, which is made up of the following departments:
Business Continuity: The Business Continuity Management Team provides support and guidance to the Corporation and the market to ensure that robust and effective contingency plans are developed and tested, enabling the Corporation to manage risk and recover effectively from any major operational disruption.

Operational Risk: The team works with Managing Agents at Lloyd's to ensure that they have sound systems of internal control and risk management

Risk Analysis: This area is responsible for ensuring Lloyd's itself has a robust risk management framework in place covering the Corporation as well as the view of risk across the market.
