Purpose of bulletin

To notify the market of changes to Lloyd’s processes for the approval and registration of open market correspondents (“OMCs”).

Background

An OMC is an insurance intermediary that introduces business to a Lloyd’s broker for placement at Lloyd’s on an open market basis and which does not have the status of a Lloyd’s approved coverholder.

For insurance business from certain territories (see appendix 1 for an updated list), Lloyd’s has a requirement that an OMC must be approved or registered by Lloyd’s. This requirement is monitored by Xchanging in accordance with Lloyd’s instructions and a risk affected by the requirement will not be signed if the OMC introducing the business is not on the Lloyd’s list of approved/registered OMCs.

The requirement applies to insurance intermediaries producing insurance business but not generally for reinsurance business. The exception is insurance intermediaries producing reinsurance business from Spain and South Africa where local regulations also require approval for reinsurance business.

Lloyd’s approves/registers OMCs for a number of reasons:

Lloyd’s is authorised under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000
Because a local legislative or regulatory requirement requires Lloyd’s, as a licensed insurer, to approve the local insurance intermediaries with whom it does business;
Because a local legislative or regulatory requirement (implicit or explicit) requires Lloyd’s, as a licensed insurer, to know the identity of the local insurance intermediaries with whom it does business;
Because compliance with local fiscal and regulatory requirements requires insurance intermediaries to report business or to pay taxes and other fiscal charges to Lloyd’s general representatives or attorneys-in-fact hereafter collectively referred to as “general representatives”);
To protect Lloyd's interests in countries where Lloyd's is licensed; and
To protect Lloyd’s brand.

Lloyd's uses “approval” to describe the authorisation of an OMC in a territory where this is an explicit regulatory requirement and “registration” to describe the authorisation of an OMC in a territory where it is not an explicit regulatory requirement. The difference affects the use that an OMC can make of Lloyd’s name (see details below).

Summary of changes

Lloyd’s Worldwide Markets has been responsible for administering Lloyd’s OMC process since the end of 2004, responsibility for the granting of approval/registration resting with Lloyd’s general representatives and attorneys-in-fact (hereafter collectively referred to as “general representatives”). Working with Legal & Compliance and Lloyd’s international offices, Worldwide Markets has carried out a review of this process and, as a result, it is introducing a number of changes.

These include:
- The introduction of a new application form.
- The extension of the requirement for OMC approval/registration to marine business.
- The extension of the requirement for OMC approval/registration to new territories.
- The introduction of a process for approving OMCs with more than one office in a single application.

New Application form

The new application form is attached (appendix 3) and is available for use immediately at www.lloyds.com/omcforms. It incorporates a standard undertaking (annex 1), which applies to all territories, except Italy and a privacy notice (annex 2).

The form is split into 2 sections:
- Part A is completed by the applicant OMC.
- Part B is completed by the sponsoring Lloyd’s broker.

The new OMC standard undertaking, which is to be completed by the applicant firm unless it only intends to produce business to Lloyd’s from Italy, is attached to the application form (appendix 3/annex 1).

Applicants that intend to produce business to Lloyd’s from Italy need to complete and sign a special undertaking for Italy. This application form is available on Lloyds.com via the following link www.lloyds.com/omcforms. The Italian undertaking is necessary because of the additional responsibilities and specific documentation processes in place for handling Italian business.

Extension to marine business

Lloyd’s requirements for OMC approval currently apply to non-marine, aviation & motor business but not to marine business. After careful consideration and following consultation with the market and the LMA marine committee, it was agreed that OMC approval requirements should apply equally to all types of insurance. This reflects Lloyd’s view that regulatory, financial, fiscal, reputational and licence risks exist with regard to insurance intermediaries of marine business as with other insurance intermediaries. It is therefore appropriate to utilise a similar process.

For business incepting on or after 1 October 2005, an intermediary introducing open market marine business to a Lloyd’s broker for placement at Lloyd’s from any of the territories listed in appendix 1 must have OMC registration/approval.

Lloyd’s brokers should ensure that any local intermediaries with whom they do business are aware of this requirement and that, if necessary, they obtain OMC approval prior to 1 October, 2005. Lloyd’s has instructed Xchanging to reject slips submitted for the placement of marine insurance incepting on or after 1 October 2005 from the territories listed in appendix 1, if the intermediary is not an approved OMC.

As for other lines of business, the approval requirement for marine insurance does not apply to reinsurance, except in the case of South Africa and Spain.

Extension to new territories

The territories covered by the current approval process were also reviewed. Lloyd’s concluded that due to existing regulatory sensitivities and financial, fiscal and reputational risks to market practitioners it was necessary to extend the approval process to a number of other territories.

For business incepting on or after 1 October 2005 Lloyd’s is extending the requirement for OMC approval to insurance intermediaries producing business from Cyprus, Malta and Portugal and to surplus lines insurance from Illinois. The OMC approval requirement in these territories only applies to direct insurance – not reinsurance – and applies to all types of business, including marine insurance.

As with the extension to marine insurance, Lloyd’s brokers should ensure that any local intermediaries with whom they do business are aware of this requirement and that, if necessary, they obtain OMC approval prior to 1 October 2005. Otherwise there is a risk that the signing of contracts by Xchanging could be delayed.

Simplified approval process for OMCs with more than one office

An OMC may wish to introduce business from more than one location, because they operate through a number of offices or branches. Until now, Lloyd’s has treated each such location as a different entity, requiring a separate application for OMC approval/registration.

Applicants may now seek OMC approval/registration for all their offices/branches in one country in a single application. A firm doing this should provide specified contact details for each office for which they are seeking approval.

However, an applicant may not use the same application form to apply for OMC approval/registration of a subsidiary company or another firm within the same group. Instead each firm must complete its own application form because it is a separate legal entity.

Where a firm obtains OMC approval it must keep its sponsor informed and its sponsor must keep Lloyd’s general representative informed of any material changes to the details of the OMCs offices as shown in its application form.

Changes to an OMCs details

The OMC should inform its sponsor of any changes to the OMCs details set out in the application form. This includes matters that might affect an assessment of the OMCs suitability to be approved by Lloyd’s as well as administrative matters, such as changes to the OMCs contact details. The sponsor should, in turn, keep the Lloyd’s general representative in the relevant territory informed of these matters. The Lloyd’s general representative will ensure that Lloyd’s central records are kept up to date. These records are used by Xchanging when confirming that an OMC on a risk has Lloyd’s approval, so a failure to keep Lloyd’s informed can delay the signing of business. A sponsor should inform the relevant general representative if the relationship between the sponsor and an OMC... ceases for any reason so that the sponsor is unlikely to place business for the OMC at Lloyd’s in the future.

There are no limits to the number of Lloyd’s brokers who may deal with an OMC. A Lloyd’s broker may therefore do business with an OMC whose application for Lloyd’s approval was sponsored by another Lloyd’s broker. In these circumstances, the Lloyd’s broker who is not the original sponsor of the OMC should complete an application form (appendix 4) for registration as an additional sponsor. This form should be submitted to the relevant general representative who will effect the registration unless there is a problem. This enables Lloyd’s to identify and contact the OMCs current Lloyd’s broker(s) at any stage.

Use of Lloyd’s Name by OMCs

OMCs may not use Lloyd’s name or logo unless they have been approved by Lloyd’s (see appendix 1 which lists where OMCs are approved). This is because in the territories where OMCs are approved (and not just registered), there are specific local legal provisions for intermediaries doing business with Lloyd’s.

An approved (i.e. not a registered) OMC can use the statement 'Lloyd’s correspondent' on its stationery, but may not incorporate Lloyd’s name into its registered company name or trading title. A registered OMC cannot use Lloyd’s name or logo.

Outline of Open Market Correspondents approval process

In summary, Lloyd’s process for approving an OMC is as follows:

1. The Applicant ("A") and sponsoring Lloyd’s broker ("LB") complete the application form which LB or A submits to the General Representative ("GR") for the relevant country (Application form is available from the Lloyd’s website www.lloyds.com/omcforms).

2. GR reviews the application form and consults appropriate sources of information. The GR will determine whether the applicant is suitable to be accepted to place business at Lloyd’s.

3. GR decides to approve application (and may impose special conditions if necessary).

4. LB will receive a letter to confirm approval and will include details of any special conditions imposed. GR will notify A of local reporting requirements.

Notes:

1. If GR proposes to reject application then the GR may invite the applicant to withdraw the application. Alternatively, a formal letter may be issued. The sponsoring LB will be given 14 days to respond in writing.

2. The application form is available from www.lloyds.com/omcforms

3. All deadlines may be extended if appropriate.
Appendix 3

Application to become a Lloyd's Open Market Correspondent

Please read the following notes carefully before filling in this form.

1. A separate application form must be completed for each firm that wishes to become an open market correspondent. However, one application form may be used to cover more than one office of the same firm.

2. The expression “firm” is used in this form to refer to a company, a partnership and any other form of economic undertaking which is recognised at law as having a separate legal personality. The words “director” and “partner” refer to persons who hold such appointments within companies and partnerships respectively, and also to persons who have equivalent legal status in other forms of economic undertaking that are recognised at law as having a separate legal personality.

3. If you or the Lloyd’s broker that is sponsoring your application (“your sponsor”) are uncertain whether any fact or matter is relevant, you should disclose it.

4. If this form does not provide enough space for your answers, please continue your answers on a separate sheet of paper indicating the question you are answering.

5. When all parts of this form have been filled in, your sponsor should send it to Lloyd’s General Representative/Attorney in Fact in the country in which registration or approval is required. Any documents needed to support this application should be enclosed with it.

6. In certain territories open market correspondents require to be approved in order to satisfy local legal or regulatory requirements. In other territories open market correspondents are registered as a matter of practice. Please see www.lloyds.com/omcforms for lists of the territories concerned in each case.

7. You and your sponsor will be notified in writing if you have been registered or approved as an open market correspondent.

Who should fill in this form?

Part A should be filled in by you, the applicant, with help from your sponsor if necessary. At the end of Part A there is a declaration that should be signed by one of your firm’s board of directors or partners.

Part B should be filled in by your sponsor. At the end of Part B there is a declaration that a board director or partner of your sponsor must sign.

Annex 1 (the standard open market correspondent’s undertaking) should be completed by you, the applicant, unless you intend to produce business to Lloyd’s from Italy. If you intend to produce business to Lloyd’s from Italy you should complete the standard Italian OMC undertaking and submit that with your application form to Lloyd’s General Representative in Italy. Copies of the standard Italian OMC undertaking may be obtained from Carola Pisani in Lloyd’s Italian office. Her contact details are:
